The funeral of William B. Smith, who was supposed to be killed by a train near Newport News Saturday, took place from the residence of his brother, Mr. Thomas

H. Smith, postmaster of Manchester, yesterday morning. The Rev. L. R. Thorn-hill. of Bainbridg2-street church, conducted the religious services, and the remains were interred in Maury cemetery.

BRAMBLETON MYSTERY.

A PROMINENT CITIZEN OF THAT TOWN HAS DISAPPEARED.

His Gun and the Game He Had Shot Found in the Boat in Which He Was Last Seen--Altercation in a Bar-Room.

NORFOLK, VA., Nov. 28.-Special.-Saturday morning Mr. John Overton, of Brambleton, went duck hunting at Lake Smith, near the city water-works. He did not return, and Saturday night a search party was organized. The shores of the lake were closely inspected, but no trace of the missing man could be discovered. Sunday morning his boat, containing his gun and considerable game, was found on the lake, and it is supposed that he fell into the water and was drowned. Mr. Overton was sixty years of age and a man of excellent character. He leaves a wife and several children.

Last Thursday morning about 3 o'clock an altercation took place at the bar of W. Church Lewis, on Queen street. Ben Spady (white), a blacksmith, of this city, was knocked down and his skull fractured in two places. He was taken to his home and the matter hushed up until last night, when his attending physician notified his wife that his condition very serious. She at once went before Police Justice East and swore out a warrant against W. C. Lewis and Ike Stott. Mr. Lewis, who is Democratic superintendent of the Fourth ward, states that he acted in self-defense. Mr. Stott is president of the John S. arbour Club, and declares that he had nothing to do with the altercation. Both were admitted to ball, to await developments.

The Old Dominion steamer Carolina has been sold to Samuel Holmes, of New York, a vessel broker, and will be run on the St. Lawrence river between Montreal and Quebec.
